THE GERMAN BAND TAKEN IN

Washington Wins the First Game With St. Louis.

HART WAS BATTED FREELY

Schmelzites Took Kindly to His Delivery, Making Nineteen Safe Hits. Dr. McJames Was Touched Up, Too, But Silver King Soon Blasted the Browns' Hopes of Winning.

Washington has made a new record, this time by winning two consecutive victories—Sunday at Chicago and yesterday at St. Louis. They also moved up above Chicago and now stand tenth.

As was expected, the Little German Band, owned by "Herb" president, "Chris" Von der Ahe, were easy picking for the Statesmen. The Senatorial sluggers seem to have overcome their weakness at the bat, and, if they maintain their good stock work, they will cause many an opposing twirler to wish he had opened his eyes to the light of day in the Big Islands or some other place where the national game is unknown to the natives.

Just why Hart was selected by the Twosome proprietor of the Mount City Club to throw the Senators down it is hard to tell, as the pitcher-pitcher has been batted all over the lot every time he has essayed to twirl against them. However, no box artist could stand up under the hitting the Schmelzites have been doing with such refreshing regularity lately.

In McJames, who occupied the pitcher's box for the Senators when the game opened, had smooth sailing until the fifth, when the Browns took to his prescriptions of curves and drops like a hungry hobo to a handout at the back door of a farmhouse, with the trusty watchdog safely tied up in the barn.

"Easy" King, who pitched the doctor after the fifth, and held his former associates down in such good style that Von der Ahe must have felt like the youth who could not pluck up courage enough to propose until some other fellow had waited off with the price he could have had for the asking, as King laid around St. Louis several seasons before he was signed by Washington, which has proved to be a profitable investment for the Wagners.

Those two usually reliable players, McGuire and Brown, divided the four errors made by the Senators, but they contributed little to the result, which was more than offset by Wrightley, DeMontreville and Abner, who lined 'em out, each being credited with three safe drives.

Washington and St. Louis play the second game of the present series in the latter city this afternoon, and unless the Capital City lacks supply of luck and hot runs out, they should seek their pillows tonight with another victory to their credit and a sense of gratitude that there is such a "good thing" as the Browns to stack up against once in a while.

The Cycle Board of Trade.

New York, May 25.—The directors of the National Cycle Board of Trade met here yesterday, and decided that no national or local cycle exhibition shall be held or sanctioned.

Stevens has fully recovered from his sore arm, and will pitch for Boston in one of the Louisville games.

Socialists now occupy the place so long held by Jesse Burkett—the first batter in the Cleveland's line-up.

Hickman, whom the Washingtons are after, has won seven out of eight games played in the Interstate League.

Thirty-eight safe hits in two games would be convincing evidence before a jury that the Washingtons can hit the ball.

St. Louis has equaled the record of Louisville last season, that of winning five games out of the first twenty-five played.

Young Danman has won five out of six games. This record may hold good until the Senators reach Cincinnati. Then it will be different.

"Roaring Bill" Hassamer is playing short for Toledo. He has shown no improvement over his Senatorial career in fielding, but he still hits the ball.

Cartwright continues to bang the ball away from home. If the twirler will let him alone at National Park he will do some hitting here, too.

The New Yorks are entitled to the distinguished consideration of the Senators and their numerous friends. They sent the Chicago to eleventh place.

Manager "Ted" Sullivan is in Atlantic City. He states that his team will report there about May 30. College players for the most part will make up the team.

Young Colonel McJee did very well against such an aggressive team as the Boston, and his work yesterday shows that he has some good points about him.

The Western Association has among its players a Bear, a Kane, a Sawyer, a Flood, a Hill, a Violet, a Berryhill, a Coon, beside a Van Buren, a Jackson, and a Monroe.

Wallace's good work at third for the Spiders should prompt Manager Schmelz to put Lester German in the game for his batting, besides, he is a fair fielder in any position.

The New York Herald calls attention to the fact that while many complaints of bad umpiring and roughness on the ball field come from the West, nothing is heard from the Inspector of umpires, Mr. John B. Day.

Catcher Bowerman has joined the Baltimore to take the place in the catching force of Capt. Robinson. In speaking of becoming a pitcher, he said he had pitched in amateur teams, but that he did not propose to attempt to become an adept in that department of the game. He felt that he would be able to hold his own as a catcher, and if he had a chance to do regular work Stenzel has presented Catcher Robinson with a fox terrier.

Ex-Senator Malarkey won his game yesterday from Toronto.

Barley is improving in his batting. He had two hits yesterday.

Toronto's sport was short-lived. Yesterday they lost two to Syracuse.

Fry, Hartford's pitcher, held Norfolk down to two hits, shutting them out.

Catcher Bergen, of the Boston, has yet to make his first error of the season.

"Old Reliable" McGuire had an off day. But the Senators won and all is forgiven.

Ritchey played second base yesterday, and put up the strongest kind of a game.

Billy Nash is covering second in fine style, but he is very weak with the stick.

The Indians found Taylor in the last inning yesterday, and simply pounded him to death.

Doyle will arrive in Baltimore today, and will not be able to play again on the trip because of injuries.

he would not pitch. While he likes Baltimore and the Baltimore team, he is very anxious to get away, where he can have a chance to show what is in him.

All the Chicago papers have fallen in line, demanding the ousting of Hart, Anson and Pfeffer. The Chronicle prints his requiem, and entitles the game of the other day with Boston, "The Passing of Anson."

The magnates of the big League put poor umpires in the business, and then give their players instructions to kick on them. How they expect to get good results from such a combination is a huge mystery.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Killen's record of runs against him are four to a game: Hawley's, 3 1-4; Tannehill, not quite 3. Four runs have been made off Gardner in the only game he has pitched, while fifteen were scored off Hastings in the two game she has pitched.

Wrightley has demonstrated that he is good. Easily in the season, when Wagner said he was too good to be out of the game, and recent events have justified the prediction. "Zeke's" fielding and hitting yesterday were a feature of the game.

Just at present Louisville is having troubles all her own. She wants at least three of the League umpires retired, and has her suspicions of the others, including the chief himself. Then, too, her team has developed a bad habit of losing by one run, just like a common, everyday team.

Your Uncle Anson warned up in practice the other day. The score cards had him batted to catch, but when "Bridget" McDonough put on the gloves to backstop the crowd cheered. "But that they loved McDonough more, but Anson less," was the way a big magnate put his seal on the demonstration.

The veteran Chadwick observes: Cigarette smoking by ball players is a costly habit. No professional player can do faithful services to his club who indulges in it, and it is most pernicious in its effects on the brain when carried to excess. It ought to lessen the salary of every player who is guilty of the folly.

They stopped a ball game between Cincinnati and Philadelphia long enough to permit the crowd to witness a parachute descent from a big balloon. Nothing short of an earthquake or a fight between a policeman and a small boy would ever cause a Chicago crowd to take its eyes off a game—Chicago Post. And at that, they haven't seen a baseball game in Chicago for some time.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Capt. Robinson, of the Orioles, is very sore over the three defeats at Cincinnati. He is now home nursing a bad wound, received in a collision with McPhee. Among other things he says: "The trouble is not with the Cincinnati players so much. It
